Management of Work Related Stress

1 Introduction

1.1 Purpose

1.1.1 The company recognises that the management of work related stress has grown in prominence over recent years and acknowledges the importance of identifying and reducing workplace stressors. This policy therefore seeks to identify work related stressors and outline the strategies available for managing these.

1.2 Scope

1.2.1 This policy applies equally to all employees, be they working at head office or site based. It is further recognised that work related stress can affect anyone regardless of his/her position in the organisation. This policy and procedure does not form part of any employee's contract of employment. It may be amended from time to time.

1.3 Equality Analysis

1.3.1 Consideration is given to all people and groups identified in the Equality Act 2010. The company recognises the need for specific measures to ensure the health and safety of staff within each of these groups. This policy and all other associated Health and Safety related policies take this into account.

1.4 Definitions

1.4.1 Stress

Stress is defined as 'the adverse reaction people have to excessive pressures or other types of demand placed upon them'. It arises when the person perceives that they cannot cope (Tackling Work-Related Stress HSE 2003). It is important to note that stress and pressure are not the same as it is recognised that pressure can be a positive state if managed correctly.

1.4.2 Stressor

Any events, circumstance or demand (external or internal to the individual) which places pressure on the individual and may result in stress. Different people respond differently to different stressors.

1.4.3 Manager

Manager is defined as any person who has supervisory responsibility for other people within the work environment.

1.4.4 Employee/Staff Member

A person employed by the company on a full-time, part-time, permanent or fixed-term contract.

1.4.5 Training and Briefing

In relation to Health and Safety, training is equipping staff with relevant skills to deal appropriately with a given situation. Briefing is informing such persons of relevant knowledge. Training and briefing will be made available in a range of formats according to the needs of the trainee and different groups of staff.

1.5 Legislative context

1.5.1 All employers have legal responsibility under the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 and Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999 to ensure the health safety and welfare at work of their employees. This includes minimising the risk of stress-related illness or injury to employees. (Quoted from HSE)

1.6 Health & Safety Implications

1.6. 1 This Policy forms part of the companies Health and Safety Policy

2 Policy

2.1 Principles

2.1.1 Context:

It is reasonable to assume that:

- Employees are psychologically capable of withstanding reasonable pressures at work
- Employees are subjected to periods of pressure at work
- Short periods of pressure are not necessarily of concern

However, sustained and/or excessive pressure over long periods of time can result in anxiety, depression and poor lifestyle patterns

This is commonly referred to as work related stress and can lead to serious illness (HSE website Document INDG424 Working Together to Reduce Stress).

2.1.2 Policy Statement:

The company is committed to creating a healthy and safe working environment for all its employees and recognises that this includes mental as well as the physical wellbeing of its employees. The company recognises work-related stressors as a potential hazard to health and is committed to managing work related stress in a proactive manner to reduce the personal impact on its employees. To fulfil its commitment and obligations the company will provide the necessary resources to implement this policy. In particular, it will support managers in fulfilling their obligations under this policy and ensure that the additional support services referred to are adequately resourced.

2.2 Procedures

2.2.1 The aim of this policy is to ensure, so far as reasonably practicable, that:

- Areas where work related stress for individuals appears prevalent are identified and assessed as appropriate, and relevant measures are introduced to control the risk to health;
- Ways are identified to control and reduce the costs associated with work related stress, be they financial, organisational or personal;
- Roles, responsibilities and accountabilities are clearly defined and understood in order to achieve successful management of work related stress;
- Relevant departments co-operate effectively in the management of work related stress e.g. Occupational Health, Human Resources, Health & Safety;

- Employees are provided with appropriate information, guidance and training relevant to work related stress;
- That staff and managers are informed of their responsibilities in respect of the policy.

3 Roles and Responsibilities

3.1.1 Health & Safety Manager

- Monitor and report on the company's performance on responding to work related stress.
- Ensure that compliance with this policy is included as part of the normal health and safety audits and reviews.
- Actively support and promote the policy by providing guidance and advice.

3.1.2 Director Human Resources

- Offer guidance and support to managers regarding the implementation of the policy.
- Support individuals who report work related stress issues and be actively involved in advising on absence relating to work related stress.
- Collate staff survey data and provide reports for the absence and staff turnover due to work related stress.
- Arrange appropriate training courses as required
- Ensure all employees who are absent from work with 'work related stress' are referred to Occupational Health.

3.1.3 Occupational Health & Safety Manager

- Provide specialist advice regarding work related stress.
- Support managers and Human Resources in implementing this policy.
- Support individuals who report stress issues particularly if this has resulted in absence.

- Contribute to data collection and analysis, particularly looking at equality profile of individuals to ensure that any patterns or trends are identified for specific protected groups.
- Support the Health & Safety Department and the HR Department discharging of their duties, particularly regarding the audit and review process.

3.1.4 Managers

- Carry out work-related risk assessments under the guidance of H&S
- Implement any actions identified within the risk assessment
- Review risk assessments in a timely manner and ensure data (e.g. sickness absence) contributing to risk assessments is recorded and used appropriately.
- Ensure appropriate communication between managers and staff.
- Liaise with HR and/or H&S to facilitate training for staff (including themselves).
- Facilitate additional, appropriate support and training for staff.
- Evaluate and implement any recommendations made by HR / H&S where the health of an employee is identified as being at specific risk from work-related stress
- Set a positive example through role modelling and identifying possible work related stressors and proactively aim to reduce these
- Ensure all employees who are absent from work with 'work related stress' are referred to HR / H&S, regardless of the period of time absent.
- The company has a 'duty of care' to protect the health, safety and welfare of all employees while at work including assessing the risks arising from work-related stress.

3.1.5 Employees

- Cooperate with Managers, Human Resources, Health & Safety personnel in discharge of their duties relating to this policy.
